Our Practice

Stradley Ronon attorneys work closely with businesses to foster trouble-free relationships and avoid disputes with employees, unions and government authorities. Drawing from our depth of both legal and practical experience, we offer custom solutions tailored to each individual workplace. We counsel businesses on how to avoid employment-related issues before they arise. At the first sign of a problem, our clients receive practical, step-by-step advice on how to manage the situation. If a dispute does arise, our lawyers are there at every stage — from investigation to negotiation and, if necessary, litigation.

Our attorneys recognize that employment issues often strike at the core of a business. To meet our clients' objectives in a cost-effective way, we fully assess the situation from all angles to keep each client's unique business considerations at the forefront of our analysis.

Cooperative Approach to Preventive Counseling

Stradley Ronon attorneys work together with clients to prevent employment-related problems. We not only address complex issues like FLSA, FMLA and ADA compliance, but also assist with everyday questions regarding hiring and firing, employee discipline, and benefit plans. We frequently draft and review employee policy manuals, handbooks, employment applications, contracts and other materials and advise clients on sound employment practices, working conditions and procedures.

The Changing Workplace

We actively advise clients on modern strategies for a changing workplace. We anticipate trends in the workplace and recommend policies and procedures to address novel issues, including remote/hybrid work arrangements, contingent workforces, the proliferation of social media and other electronic communications, and the increased use of alternative dispute resolution agreements.

Keeping Clients Informed

Our lawyers regularly conduct on-site training and presentations and work with clients to develop “best practices,” all designed and customized to address the unique needs and concerns of each workplace. We also keep clients apprised of important developments in employment and labor law through periodic client alerts, which explore relevant topics and offer practical advice without legalese.
